

The Bloomfield Record.

(OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE TOWNSHIP.)

S. M. HULIN, Editor and Proprietor.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1874.

This Record is published every Friday. Office on Broadway, near the Depot. Terms $1.50 per year in advance. Single copies Four Cents.
Advertisements, correspondence, etc., respectfully solicited.
This Record is ready and for sale every Friday morning, at the following places: Office of Publication, Glenwood Ave.
E. C. Hennegan's News Stand, Bloomfield Ave.
G. C. L. Lind's News Stand, Glenwood Ave.
ADVERTISEMENTS, etc., should be handed in not later than Wednesday, at 1 P. M. No charge for inserting Marriages, Deaths, or religious notices.

The Industrial Exhibition.

No one should neglect to visit Newark's Exhibition of Home Industry, where so much is to be seen that is at once instructive, elevating and refining. The display of manufactured fancy, ornamental and useful goods is unusually fine, and we hope if it can be viewed by any fairing in the country, for variety and range as well as excellency and beauty of workmanship.

Benjamin Mayo, of 887 Broad street, Newark, has a large case of his celebrated silver and plated table ware, which attracts much attention. It is really a magnificent affair. Among the goods exhibited by Mr.
Mayo are many novelties and articles, especially rich in design.

Close by this collection may be seen in instructive contrast gold and silver in its crude state, and in all its various stages of smelting and refining, also various other minerals, from the refining works of C. S.
Dennis & Co.

The display of numismatics, another curious and instructive feature of the exhibition, is particularly fine, there being several collections of American and foreign coins, some of them very ancient, having been struck when the world was young, at least, in human history.

Chey & Stewart, haters and dealers in fine furs, have on exhibition a collection of their newest styles, which attracts marked attention.

Marshall & Co. display some fine samples of clothing.

In the machinery department are to be seen light and heavy machinery in motion, also various processes of manufacturing, making, lithographing, and many other industries.

No one should miss devoting a part of an afternoon or evening to an inspection of this interesting sample room of Newark's workshops and business marts.

The Last Statement.

Theodore Tilton's late statement, from the manner in which it has been commented upon by the press, proves to be a more formidable document than any that has appeared in the great controversy. Leading newspapers that heretofore regarded Mr.
Beecher's explanation and the action of the Committee as fit a measure satisfactory, have materially modified or changed their opinions after reading this tersely-written review of the case. The Tribune, which only a week before declared that Mr. Beecher's word would stand against a ten-acre lot full of Tiltons, feels called upon to say in regard to one development in this last statement, "it leaves the Committee in a very unpleasant predicament, and terribly impairs the value of their sweeping and emphatic verdict."

The Evening Post is convinced "that it is impossible for the public to satisfy itself of the truth from the ex parte statements which have been multiplying so rapidly, and that a suspension of judgment is the utmost that the parties of either Mr. Beecher or the Committee, or Mr. Tilton on the other, can ask, until the case is tried in the courts. We say this with deep reluctance, for we once had an earnest hope that we might abide with confidence by the conclusions of the committee. A careful and critical reading of Mr. Tilton's statement, however, leads us to doubt whether the report is not to be classified, like every other statement in the case, as a partisan document."

We could quote from many other prominent papers, in illustration of the revul-sion that has taken place. The question arises, will the other side reply? It is not probable that any more statements will be printed. The public has had a surfeit of them, and the result is by no means conclusive or even satisfactory. Infinitely more harm than good has come from these reminiscences, partisan feelings have been intensified, innocent persons de-famed, and hurtful prejudices engendered against religion and morality. And these are the worst and most deplorable features of the case.

MR. MORGAN'S NEW BOOK AND LECTURE.
Rev. Henry Morgan's new book "Shadow Hand, Life Struggles," is an attractive book of over 400 pages, illustrated. It is a picture of real life. The incidents cannot fail to reach the heart, as they are depicted with vividness and pathos. The book results at $1.50. Agents will do well to apply at (this office or) Morgan Chapel, Boston.

The Commissioners of Appeal met on Tuesday last, the appointed day, but owing to the fact that the tax bills had not all been distributed, they adjourned until Monday, the 4th of October next.

In Limbo at Last.

The house robberies which for a year or more have been the terror and annoyance of residents in this vicinity, have at length received a check in the arrest of a man named Louis F. Wallrabe. He was arrested by Marshall Trenchard, of South Orange, several days ago and taken to Newark, having been discovered in the act, apparently, of entering an unoccupied dwelling for the purpose of committing depredations.

Subsequent disclosures, ferreted out by the detectives, revealed the fact that he had been the occupant of a small house situated in the woods between East and South Orange. People residing in the vicinity furnished the clue that a person answering the description of Wallrabe was in the habit of leaving this lonely dwelling every evening with a horse and wagon, and returning early in the morning. Upon this clue the house was quietly taken possession of by Chief Rogers of Newark, when it was found to be crammed from cellar to garret with valuables of every description that had been stolen and secreted there. Detectives were stationed upon the premises for several days but nobody came, and at length the goods, filling several wagons, were removed to Newark. Among them are boxes of silverware, spoons with monograms, knives, forks, etc. A magnificent water pitcher, evidently of Tiffany's make, is a curiosity in the collection. It is inscribed, "Maggie, June 10th, 1873," evidently a wedding present.

Another box contains a large amount of silver melted down from silverware. There are Chinese vases of elegant design, cases of blanks, boxes of shoes, stacks of woolen blankets, baskets of fruit, jars containing butter and lard, champagne by the dozen, demijohns of the choicest whiskeys, carpenter tools, umbrellas of all sizes, from that of a girl's sunshade up to the family protector; fancy canes, books, wash tubs, boilers, tin pans, fancy lamps, carpets, flat-irons, cigar boxes, harness, market baskets, fishing tackle, clothes pine, water pails, fishing, kerosene oil cans, jellies put up in style, and other things too numerous to mention. In addition to the above were found molds for making counterfeit coin, and a box full of counterfeit five cent pieces.

Since the arrest and discovery, as above, was made public on Friday last, residents of Montclair, Bloomfield and the Oranges, whose houses had been invaded during the past year, have in numerous instances identified their property amid this extensive collection. Not a few of them also identify the about their premises in the day time, either as a beggar or in some other vocation. We have been informed by Mr. Saxay, whose house has been twice entered, that the inmates of his own and other families readily recognize Wallrabe by his photograph, taken a day or two ago, as the man who had visited their residences and amused the children with an organ and monkey. Mr.
Saxay held a conversation with Wallrabe on Monday. His plea is innocence and in his looks, actions and conversation he is factually manages to "assume a virtue if he has it not."

About twenty persons have identified their property among the goods found in the house of Wallrabe. Among the robberies for which he is found to be responsible are the following:

Residence of Mr. N. O. Pillsbury, Montclair, robbed August 28, of carpets and kitchen utensils valued at $50; house of Charles C. Wilcox, Montclair, robbed August 26, of blankets, etc., worth $60, also harness from the barn worth $40; wood-shed of Mrs. H. H. Lloyd, Montclair, robbed of a bureau, saw, etc., worth $75; a house of J. R. Bartholomew, Bloomfield, robbed July 22, of goods worth $150; house of Cornelius Bryant, Bloomfield, robbed September 4, of clocks and other goods worth $800; house of J. Banks Bedford, robbed June 15, of a tub of butter, etc., worth $40, also August 31, of kitchen utensils worth $5; Edward B. Kennedy, Bloomfield, robbed July 31 of an overcoat worth $40; house of H. B. McVaine, East Orange, robbed of $250; house of Geo. W. Cushing Munn avenue, East Orange, robbed of a valuable clock and plated ware worth $300; house of Joseph B. Maxwell, Bloomfield, robbed of $140 worth of articles, of which $20 worth have been identified. Samuel Carl, of this village, recovers some more of the clothing stolen from his store, together with his (empty) pocket book.

Essex County Teachers' Association.

This Association will hold its next meeting in the Public School House in Belleville, on Saturday Oct. 3d commencing at 10 o'clock A. M.

The following order of exercises has been arranged:

- FORENOON SESSION.
1. Miscellaneous Business.
 2. Discussion, opened by Mr. John G. Lewis, Principal of the Webster School, New Haven, Conn. Subject: How should History be taught in our schools?
 3. Class Exercise in Reading. Conducted by Miss Maggie McGrath, of Belleville.
 4. A Paper by Mr. Horace G. Howe of West Orange. Subject: The best method of teaching Proportion.
 5. Class Exercise in Geography. Conducted by Miss Serena Ross, of Belleville.
- AFTERNOON SESSION.
1. The Teacher's Paper. Read by its Editor, Mr. E. S. Stackpole, of Bloomfield.
 2. Paper by Mr. Amasa Barringer, of Belleville. Subject: Music in our Public Schools.
 3. Remarks by Mr. Chas. Davis, County Superintendent of Schools.
 4. Discussion, opened by Mr. William N. Barringer, of Newark. Subject: How shall Grammar be taught?

Teachers and all other friends of education in the County are invited to be present and participate in the exercises of the meeting.

THE LOCAL NEWS.

Democratic Primary at Friendship Hall to-night.

A sign-board can't tell anything. It takes an advertisement in the local paper to do that.

A fine concert is to come off in the Montclair Congregational Church, this (Friday) evening.

Capt. Walter H. Dodd, formerly of this place, but now a resident of Hackensack, is spending a few weeks in town.

There will be preaching as usual in the Lecture Room of the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning and evening.

The Republicans meet at the Lecture Room on Monday evening, to elect delegates to the Newark Convention to be held Oct.
1st.

The appearance of Halsey, Hunter and Haley's advertisement in The Record denotes the approach of the fall and winter season.

"What's the plural of pillow?" asked a teacher the other day. "A bolster, sir," replied his rawest pupil, amid the suppressed tittering of the whole class.

Our advertising columns ought to convince anybody, if there is anybody who doubts it, that The Record is the paper which is popular in Bloomfield.

Rev. J. J. Irving of Glasgow, Scotland, who supplied the pulpit of the Baptist church so acceptably last Sabbath, will preach again in the same place next Sabbath A. M. and P. M. Public cordially invited.

Our M. E. Church takes the lead, this season, in providing popular lectures. That announced for next Wednesday evening by Rev. C. N. Sims, who has the reputation of being a fine orator, should and doubtless will attract a well filled house.

Mr. Brown, a workman in the Peloubet organ manufactory, had his hand severely lacerated yesterday forenoon. He slipped upon a roller lying on the floor, and struck his hand upon a circular saw that was in motion. It is thought he will escape with the loss of one finger.

Just over the top of the "house" built by Hayes & Taylor. It has twelve lights and cost $138. This chandelier is from Mitchell Vance & Co., manufacturers of gas fixtures, and for whom Hayes & Taylor are agents for Bloomfield.

The Trustees of the First Presbyterian church have decided to purchase for a parsonage, a property on Monroe Place, opposite Mr. Sheldon's, having offered the owners, Madison Brothers, $9,000, contin-gent upon the securing of five additional feet on the east side of the lot.

It is suggested that in future, when crosswalks are built, if the stones should be laid a few inches higher than the street grade, their utility and the comfort of pedestrians would be enhanced. Also, for the benefit of vehicles and the decent appearance of the streets, that the surplus earth and stones be removed within a reasonable time.

Kingsland's paper mill, at Franklin, was destroyed by fire on Monday last. The mill was built in 1808, and had never before been damaged by fire. It contained fine machinery, and executed large Government contracts for "greenback paper." The loss is about $50,000, insured for $40,000, in various companies.

At the close of Police Justice Mills's court in Newark Wednesday the number of charges preferred against Louis C. Walrabe, the Orange Mountain burglar, was thirty-five, and there is still a large amount of property not identified. The Government will also prefer charges for counterfeiting. It is probable that he will be sent to State prison for life.

BLOOMFIELD INDUSTRY.—Yesterday afternoon Mr. N. H. Dodd, carriage builder of this place, turned out from his establishment a piece of workmanship which is worthy of special mention. It was a six-seat phaeton, value $1,000, built for W. J.
Best, Esq., of Caldwell. For design, elegance and durability it should be pronounced not only a creditable achievement of Bloomfield enterprise and mechanism, but a carriage which would by no means disgrace the repository of Brewster, or any other first-class builder. We are glad to be able to say so much in deserved praise of home industry and skill.

The fine weather which set in on Monday enabled many of our Bloomfield and Montclair people to visit the State Fair, which was continued over on account of the protracted storm, last week. Says the Newark Courier, "there has been a noble response and the Fair of 1874, instead of being a failure, as it was feared it would be last week, has proved in every respect a brilliant success. The credit of the State has been saved, and the Society is now encouraged to put forward its best energies in future. The mission and the results of these annual displays and gatherings are so clearly mirrored forth in the able address of the President of the Society, Hon. Amos Clark, Jr., that it is scarcely necessary to add a single word approving this subject."

Caldwell Brevities.

Much interest is manifested by parents and children in the approaching completion of the new school building. In anticipation thereof the principal of the school has been busily engaged examining the different schools preparatory to classifying them for the new building. There will be four grades. The Academic, Junior, Intermediate and Primary, under the charge of Addison Ely, A. B., principal and Misses Sly, Armstrong and Pike, assistants. The course of study will, with the exception of the classics, attain a high school grade.

The Road Board have concluded to extend the Telford of the Bloomfield Avenue from its present terminus, at Caldwell, to Pine Brook. This is done in order to equalize the benefit as well as the taxation.
Caldwell township has assumed half the cost of the road; and portions living in the extreme end of Caldwell say that when they agreed to the plan, the road was to go through the township and not half way through. This recent act of the Road Board will therefore prevent grumbling.

The Commissioners of Appeal met at the Snyder House, Tuesday 22d. Little if any dissatisfaction was manifested with the assessor's work and only forty or fifty dollars deducted.

Eddie Taylor, a boy about nine years of age, was seriously injured on Tuesday by falling from the top of a corn house. Dr.
Hunter attended the wounded boy and found that his shoulder was dislocated.

CONROY.

Bloomfield Library Association.

On Monday evening the Board of Directors completed making wards for the erection of the Library Building. The following were the lowest bidders and to them the contracts were given, as follows:

Carpenter work to Geo. S. Mott of Newark.

Mason work to Patrick Regan of Newark.

Sash and Doors to Whiteman Bros. of Newark.

Plumbing to Hayes & Taylor of Bloomfield.

Iron Work to A. & E. C. Hay of Newark.

Painting to Radolph Brunet of Bloomfield.

Slatting to David Cartwright of Newark.

Ground was broken yesterday. In order that the work may reach a point of safety before cold weather comes on, and be entirely completed with all possible promptness, it is hoped that stockholders will take a lively interest and respond to the Treasurer's calls without delay. Also that our citizens generally subscribe for stock.

The people of the State are justly proud of their pure and upright judiciary. We believe it has been kept so in times past, because the selections have not usually been made on the ground of mere partisanship in politics; and because it has been usually understood, that when the judicial robe is put on, party politics should be laid aside, and the nomination of judges from the bench is an innovation, and if it is ratified by the people, it will be a notice to other Judges, that notwithstanding their position, the door of political promotion stands open, and they must so administer the law and perform their duties as Judges, as to stand well with their party friends. It appears to us that such a sentiment will prove most demoralizing in the administration of justice, and that the people of New Jersey will not encourage it by making this experiment successful.—Bridgeton Chronicle.
